Monday Music Memo 6: 1 May 2023

Happy Worker's Day!

Which means you must make your own music choice. Here are Internet two sources where you are spoiled for choice.

1. Google "Radio Swiss Classic" - this will bring up a music station in Switzerland which plays 24 hours of classical music without any ads, just the odd reminder whom you are listening to. You can also check every piece that is being played by clicking on it. At the bottom of the webpage is a small square icon. This takes you to a choice between Classic, Pop or Jazz.

2. This is the ultimate global radio music station.

In Google enter "Radio Garden" and it will prompt you with "Sowing seeds". Then a globe appears with a myriad of dots of lights. Each spot of light represents a radio station. You can choose whether you like to have an Italian or French evening. Not all stations play music but you will find one. Handle the globe like you would handle Google Earth. Give it a try.
